DETAILED ACTIONClaim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 2-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Barnhill, III, et al. (4,512,220).

Barnhill, III, et al. discloses all of the limitations of claims 2-6, i.e., a socket having inner opening with six radially outwardly recesses (30) having one flank (11) in the circumferential direction; the recesses forming six radially inner point (apex) and twelve radially outer points (see Fig. 5) having a radially outer surface (e.g., 40) between the neighboring one of the outer points having a shape substantially corresponding to a shape of a twelve points wherein every other point is removed; further having another axial portion having means for connecting to a tool, col. 3, lines 1 and 2; and wherein the angles may be at 30 degrees (06:03).

Conclusion

3. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 04/12/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument that prior art socket is not designed and not used for tightening, loosening, or holding a hexagonal part located underneath an equally sized hexagonal nut, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 370 F.2d 576, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 312 F.2d 937, 939, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963).

In response to applicant's arguments, the recitation "for tightening, loosening, or holding a hexagonal part located underneath an equally sized hexagonal nut" has not been given patentable weight because the recitation occurs in the preamble. A preamble is generally not accorded any patentable weight where it merely recites the purpose of a process or the intended use of a structure, and where the body of the claim does not depend on the preamble for completeness but, instead, the process steps or structural limitations are able to stand alone. See In re Hirao, 535 F.2d 67, 190 USPQ 15 (CCPA 1976) and Kropa v. Robie, 187 F.2d 150, 152, 88 USPQ 478, 481 (CCPA 1951). The socket as disclosed by Barnhill meets a socket having the structural limitations as recited in the claims. The arguments regarding requirements for the anticipation and/or obviousness rejections are noted, however, they to indicate what claim limitation is not met. Note that a combination claim, wherein the operational environment, e.g., drive socket, holding socket workpieces 4 and 5 are properly recited, is not being claimed, and as such the language with regards to the preamble, functional/narrative recitation does not further limit a socket having six outwardly extending recesses...
